FOOD & BEVERAGE

james green

Q Station's Executive Chef James Green is passionate about creating delicious, unique and seasonal menus using local Australian produce.

James grew up on Lord Howe island, working in his family's restaurant. Having travelled across Australia, Canada and the United States, James has grown his love for good food in multiple cuisines. Some of his career highlights so far include working at famed restaurants such as Icebergs in Bondi; Otto in Woollloomooloo; Momofuku in Toronto, Canada; and WD-50 in New York.

"My favourite part about the Boilerhouse is primarily the location and the history," says James, "But also the focus on small producers and using beautiful Australian produce."

James' philosophy is to provide fresh, seasonal, quality food that offers something for every Q Station guest. This same philosophy has been translated across Q Station's culinary offerings in Boilerhouse Restaurant, Conferences and Weddings.
